From Thanksgiving until the end of the year, shoppers will find a myriad of offers, discounts and special "deals" from retailers ranging from Amazon to Walmart. This time of year, could be a shoppers' paradise. However, during this major shopping season a day stands out to champion our small businesses.

Small Business Saturday is an annual event that takes place on the Saturday after Thanksgiving. This year the date is November 30, 2024. First observed in 2010, Small Business Saturday has become an important day to show appreciation for the small businesses that are the backbone of our nation's economy.

Now more than ever, small businesses need support. Since the onset of COVID, small businesses have struggled against inflation, working to keep their customers happy while watching expenses. Since 2010 the total reported U.S. spending at small businesses during this annual event is estimated at $201 billion. In 2023 the reported projected spending in the U.S. from those who shopped at small businesses See "Shop" page 6

In the 1880s, hosiery businessman LaMarcus Thompson hated that Americans were tempted by hedonistic places like saloons and brothels. So, he set out to straighten up one of the most immoral places he could think of – Coney Island in New York. There he built America's first roller coaster to give New Yorkers some good clean fun, away from seedier pastimes. His invention didn't work.

The Aftermath

About three weeks ago I decided to write a story about the dog attack that occurred while I was sitting on my patio. As a result, I am going to tell you what happened after the attack. The dog was never found. After talking to three different doctors, I decided to go ahead and get the rabies shots. The reasoning I was given is that no one survives rabies. Once you get the disease it is always fatal. At the age of 78 and with numerous medical problems I was not looking forward to these shots. The only place I found to get the shots was at the Salina Hospital. This meant a trip to Salina each time I was to get a shot. Rabies shots are not one and done. They are spread out over four weeks. The first visit I was given four shots. The next visit four days later I was given two shots. This was followed by one shot a week later and a final shot a week after that. There weren't any side effects until the last shot when it affected my other problems. The final cost of the shots, $12,515.27. Adding up my other expenses It comes to a total of $799.76 which is a grand total of $13,315.03. This does not include the trauma my dog and I experienced. It took several days before my dog would go outside. I was jumpy every time I went outside whether to get the mail or go to the dumpster. I still always carry pepper spray and many times a club. I do not feel safe in my own backyard. The nightmares are less and less but still happen occasionally. Now, why am I telling all this. Not to get sym-pathy or pity. I just want all dog owners to realize what can happen when a dog is running loose. We have a large number of dogs loose in our town all the time. Most dogs will not attack a human and when I hear someone say "Oh, my dog would never hurt anyone" the truth of it all is you don't know. I feel in my case the big dog saw my dog as prey and that was the start of the attack. After that it was a matter of my try-ing to get the "prey" away from the dog. Owning a dog is a big responsibility. You are responsible for everything the dog does. In my case, the owner should be responsible for the money spent on medical, veterinary and all bills. As I said before, there are times when a dog will get loose but the problem is when the owner does nothing to stop the dog from getting loose. If it gets free all the time, perhaps the owner should lose custody of the dog. I do not have a solution but people need to realize hav-ing a dog run loose in town is dangerous, not just to other people but to the dog itself. What will happen if this same dog decides to attack a small child? We hear of children being killed by dogs in the news, is our town the next to experience this tragedy?

I do not have an answer to this problem. Perhaps bigger fines to the owners of dogs who run loose instead of just overlooking the problem. When I hear people say "Oh, it is just so and so's dog and it gets loose all the time," I wonder if this is the time that dog will attack a person. Personally I am sad that in our small town I do not feel it is safe to go outside without pepper spray or a club .I hope my story will make people think about taking care of their dogs and a solution that will make our town safe again.

PRAIRIE DOC - BY JOANIE HOLM, CNP

Giving Thanks

Would you like to sleep better, have a healthier heart and less aches and pains? How about a lower blood pressure, a higher self -esteem and enhanced relationships? Would you believe that the Mayo Clinic and Harvard University, as well as other scientist all say these benefits can be yours with very little effort. And it doesn't require a change in your diet or excessive exercise!

So, what is this magical therapy? GRATITUDE!!

Gratitude comes from the Latin word gratia, which means grace, graciousness or gratefulness. Psychologist's Robert Emmons of University of California, Davis and Michael Mc-Cullough, University of Miami, were early researchers in this field. They found that 10 weeks of practicing gratitude can result in the outcomes listed above as well as: an increased happiness score, increased optimism, increased exercise, decreased physician visits, increased focus, increased patience and strengthened social connections. Wow, who doesn't want these health and relationship benefits? Gratitude is like a muscle that you can build with exercise and practice. There are many ways to increase your gratitude muscle such as writing thank you notes, saying thank you to others in person or just mentally, writing a gratitude journal, praying and meditating. Other experts mention benefits from a brief, positive chat with a friend, a kind gesture toward a stranger and a peaceful stroll in nature. A change in mindset can help you feel better, for example feel-ing grateful for a helpful friend rather than feeling frustrated that you can do the task alone.

Let's get started on this journey of gratitude. Thank you for reading this essay and for watching On Call with the Prairie Doc. Thanks to all of my friends and family for the love and support you give me daily. Thanks to my church family for your spiritual support.

Now it is your turn....

POST ROCK EXTENSION DISTRICT

Planning for the Third Trimester

By Blaire Todd

K-State Research and Extension Post Rock District Livestock Production Agent

The third trimester of pregnancy is a crucial period because of the rapid growth the fetus undergoes and because it is our opportunity to improve cow body condition prior to calving if needed. It is easy to forget those things when we can't see the growing fetus and a growing winter coat may be deceptive when it comes to body condition.

As a reminder, if you began breeding on May 15, the third trimester will begin on November 20th, for breeding beginning on June 1, the third trimester begins December 7th, and for a start date of June 15 for breeding, the third trimester will begin December 21st.

Fetal growth is exponential during this time with blood flow increasing 3 to 4-fold from mid to late gestation. In the last 60 days, 75% of growth occurs, or 60 pounds of an 80-pound birth weight. The total weight of membranes at calving is around 100-150 pounds total.

Early in pregnancy, the placenta, organs and limbs develop. Muscle fiber growth starts early as well, and the number of fibers is largely determined by the 7th month of pregnancy. The size of muscle fi-bers and formation of fat cells that produce marbling occur later in gestation and nutrient restriction at this time can reduce the size of muscle fibers and formation of fat cells that produce marbling. The impacts on muscle fiber size have been demonstrated in heavier calf birth weights (no change in calving difficulty), weaning weights, and carcass weights. Additional marbling is not as consistently evident across studies however by harvest time many additional factors may come into play.

As little as 1 pound of a 28% protein supplement per day during late gestation for cows grazing native range has been shown to be beneficial to calf weights and heifer performance. the pregnancy with fetus, fluids and This level of restriction in the un-supplemented cows was not enough to reduce pregnancy rates compared to supplemented cows.

Feed costs are high this year, but strategic supplementation can pay off in calf weaning weight. Pay particular attention to first calf heifers that are growing themselves in addition to the fetus.

For those in need of a quick and easy dish for the snack table this holiday season, this cranberry cream cheese dip is a fabulous addition for your guests.

As we head into the home stretch of 2024, we're officially entering snacking season.

It's that time of year when we all concede to our stretchy pants, eat with friends and family, and hope that our New Year's resolutions will save us from having to size up when shorts season comes around again.

That being said, I want to let you know that I fully recognize that I'm complicit in the annual sweets and snacking, as I share interesting holiday dishes with vou. The next month or so won't be any different, though, so you'll either need season.

This week's holiday delicacy comes from Michelle Goth, who writes the blog "Blackberry Babe." You can find the original post at https://blackberrybabe.com/2016/11/20/easy-cranberry-cream-cheese-dip/. I doubled the cranberry sauce and left out the sugar entirely in my version below.

Cranberry Cream Cheese Dip

Ingredients

- 2 8-ounce packages cream cheese, softened
- 14 ounces whole berry cranberry sauce
- 1/2 cup whipped cream or whipped topping (I used extra creamy)

Directions

Add all three ingredients to a mixing bowl and beat for several minutes until the mixture is creamy and well cookies or fruit for dipping

This was super, super easy to put together, and despite what I said in the beginning about my sweets advocacy, I didn't feel the need to add sugar like the original recipe listed. I felt like it was plenty sweet enough with the extra cranberry and the whipped cream. It wasn't overly cranberry heavy on the flavor, even with the addition, so those who aren't into that tartness won't have to worry about this one.

You could also substitute fat-free cream cheese and whipped topping to really cut down on the calories, if you wanted to.

So, yeah, actually, I take back what I said about being a terrible influence. If you make a few modifications, it might not be so bad for your diet. (Of course, for next week, all bets are off.)

Here's what seniors need to know about changes to Medicare Part D

By Kenneth Thorpe

Congress recently made a number of changes to Medicare's "Part D" prescription drug benefit. The changes were part of President Biden's signature legislation, the Inflation Reduction Act. The legislation was intended to make it easier for seniors to afford their medicines.

Some of the changes will indeed help seniors. But other changes could inadvertently raise seniors' costs, reduce their access to medicines, and stifle the development of new treatments.

With open enrollment season just around the corner -- it'll run from October 15 to December 7 this year -- every senior should know about the Inflation Reduction Act and how it has impacted Medicare.

First, the good news. Seniors using insulin now have their costs capped at $35 each month. This has already made a huge difference for those living with diabetes.

Starting next year, seniors' yearly out-of-pocket Part D drug costs will be capped at $2,000. Seniors will also have the option to spread these costs out over the entire year through a new program called the "Medicare Prescription Payment Plan." Both of these changes can help seniors who rely on multiple brand-name medicines and those on fixed incomes.

But right now, very few enrollees are aware of this new program. Medicare could do more to alert seniors to this new feature, especially since seniors interested in this benefit will need to opt in. Dur- See "Medicare" page 8

Wick recognized for 35 years of service to K-State Research and Extension

Recently at the K-State Research and Extension Annual Conference in Manhattan, KS, Sandra L. Wick, was recognized for 35 years of service to K-State Research and Extension.

She started her Extension career in January of 1989 as the Agriculture Agent in Smith County along with sharing the 4-H youth development responsibilities with the Family and Consumer Sciences Agent. She served in that position until Smith County joined the Post Rock Extension District in 2012 where she now serves as the Crop Production Agent for Jewell, Lincoln, Mitchell, Osborne and Smith Counties.

She has been instrumental in establishing over 80 demonstration test plots with many crops including alfalfa, corn, grain sorghum, soybeans and wheat along with hosting many agronomy field days, workshops and schools.

She has thoroughly enjoyed working with 4-H and farm families and providing research-based information from K-State Research and Extension. Operation Christmas Child drop-off locations now open

Children in need are being blessed this Christmas season through the Samaritan's Purse project, Operation Christmas Child. Individuals, families and groups have the opportunity to pack a shoebox gift filled with fun toys, school supplies, and personal care items and drop them off now during National Collection Week, Nov. 18

- 25. There are more than 4,700 dropoff locations open around the country. Operation Christmas Child has been collecting and delivering shoebox gifts to children worldwide for more than three decades. In 2024, Operation Christmas Child hopes to collect enough shoeboxes to reach another 12 million children. The project of Samaritan's Purse partners with local churches across the globe to deliver these tangible expressions of God's love to children in need. Find a step-by-step guide on the How to Pack a Shoebox webpage.

"Samaritan's Purse is committed to taking the Gospel to hard-to-reach places-whether its responding to a disaster or sharing God's love through the power of a simple shoebox," said Franklin Graham, president of Sa-maritan's Purse. "You can show kids in need the true meaning of Christmas this year through a shoebox gift. Please prayerfully consider packing a shoebox this year."

Participants can use the online lookup tool to find the nearest drop-off location and hours of operation as they make plans to drop off their shoebox gifts. It is searchable by city or ZIP code. Signs at each location will identify the drop off.

For more information, call 816-622-8316, or visit samaritanspurse. org/occ. Those who prefer the convenience of online shopping can browse samaritanspurse.org/buildonline to select gifts matched to a child's specific age and gender, then finish packing the virtual shoebox by adding a photo and personal note of encouragement.

Operation Christmas Child, a project of Samaritan's Purse, seeks to demonstrate God's love in a tangible way to children in need around the world and, together with the local church worldwide, to share the Good News of Jesus Christ. Since 1993, Operation Christmas Child has collected and delivered more than 220 million giftfilled shoeboxes to children in more than 170 countries and territories.

Insight - Kansas Farm Bureau - opinion A feast of thanks

Pottawatomie County farmer & rancher We are on the eve of Thanksgiving and one of the most iconic meals of the year. Who does not crave the turkey, dressing, mashed potatoes, rolls, cranberries, pumpkin pie, etc. I know my plan is to fall asleep in front of the TV in a turkey induced food coma.

The American Farm Bureau Federation has come out with its annual comparison of the cost of a traditional dinner for 10 and the price has fallen for the second year in a row. The cost is $58.08, or $5.80 per person. This is a reduction of 5 percent from 2023 and down from $64.05 in 2022. I do not know if anyone else finds this interesting — maybe it is just my ag econ degree talking - but I like comparing one year to the next. I whether Thanksgiving dinner could be purchased at that price, but I really think that is irrelevant. The fact is one of the things we must be thankful for is living in a country where we have an affordable, abundant food supply. I also like to think that Thanksgiving is a time when we should celebrate agriculture and all that we, as an industry, do to make the United States the greatest nation in the world. The foundation of any stable nation is a stable food supply. It is really hard to accomplish great things on an empty stomach.

I know we all take the food choices we have for granted. This past week I went to the grocery store to buy our Thanksgiving turkey, and I was met with a wide selection of brands and weights of turkeys. Driving down the presented on the aisles of our grocery stores are endless. Consider the fact that you do not even have to go to the grocery store to buy food and you start to get the idea.

Most of us do not have to worry about where our next meal is coming from, we just must figure out what we want to eat. That is where those of us in agriculture come in. Without the incredible network of farmers and ranchers this safe, abundant food supply is not possible.

We are so good at what we do that most of our consumers take it for granted, and maybe that is why I find the annual comparison from the American Farm Bureau so fascinating. Most of us will go to the grocery store, pick up the necessary items street I saw restaurant signs offering and never give a thought to the cost saw one commentator who disputed to prepare the bird. "Small Business Saturday is a very special day for us at Seir-er's Clothing," said Shelby Errebo. "Of course we love a day that celebrates small businesses, but it also reminds us that because of the support of our customers, we can continue as a small business serving our customers and our community." Small Business Saturday is celebrated in Lincoln in a big way. In a community such as ours, most businesses are small businesses compared to Big Box stores and giant conglomerates. When supporting small businesses, the support goes much further than you think. These small businesses are the funding sources for community events, school athletics and local fundraising activities. They donate money, time, labor and products to sponsor a wide variety of events. Without their help, there may not be a local Chamber of Commerce, a Post Rock Festival or a lighted Christmas parade.

It's the small business owners and employees who take the time for individual service. They are happy to help with gift selection, and because the community is small, they know the recipient and may know what they like. Given a choice, would you prefer to receive a gift chosen based on a photo on-line or promoted by a corporation who doesn't know either the giver or the receiver but do know their profit margins, or a gift selected on an individual basis with care.

Many local businesses are offering incentives to keep their customers in town on Small Business Saturday. Save your gas, wear and tear on your vehicle and your anxiety levels by staying in town and shopping locally with our small business owners.

As a sneak preview, Seirer's Clothing has specials that day on merchandise, as well as snacks for hungry shoppers. Mity Mart is offering $1.00 off a whole Hunt Brothers Pizza, saving weary shoppers from the need to cook. LouMae & Ash is offering deep discounts on towels and drinkware. Village Lines is celebrating the Denmark heritage, and The KC Quilting Co. is offering discounts on Christmas yardage.

Enjoy Small Business Saturday without leaving town and by doing so support your friends and neighbors as well as your community.

LINCOLN - PAST, PRESENT & FUTURE

by Cindy Entriken

I have always been fascinated by mummies and fossils. As a child I dreamed of becoming an archeologist. I wanted to discover a heretofore unknown tomb in Egypt. As I grew older and learned about fossils, I changed my mind and decided I'd become a paleontologist. Sadly, neither of those plans worked out.

But I haven't lost my fascination with mummies or fossils. Years ago, The Nelson-Adkins Museum in Kansas City hosted an exhibition of Egyptian mummies and artifacts. I loved it.

As for fossils, I finally realized, some years back, that I could find fossils in my own back yard because Lincoln is located along the eastern edge of the Western Interior Seaway which divided North America in half. Here's a map created by the U.S. Geological Survey showing the states that were covered by the inland sea for approximately 34 million years.

Recently I had to have some foundation work done on my house at 604 N. 3rd. It's an old house built with a limestone block foundation like so many of the houses in this area. The workmen replaced some of the old limestone blocks with new ones. So I had an opportunity to look at a lot of the limestone. I found a lot of fossils, mostly some type of prehistoric clam.

Fortunately for me, my father-in-law was an amateur geologist who collected amazing rocks and fossils during his lifetime. So we had a collection of small-sized fossils. However a few years ago, one of my husband's friends, a retired oil geologist, gave us his collection of fossils to add to ours. We've also purchased fossils at rock and mineral shows.

You can see our fossil collection in the front windows of the former antique store, located in the 100 block of East Lincoln Avenue.

I have two favorites -- the 30,000 year old cave bear claw from Romania, and the crinoids. A crinoid was an ancient sea creature. My crinoid slab came from the Manhattan, Kansas, area. It's a particularly good example showing the stems and the cup of several creatures. Usually a crinoid fossil may have only pieces of broken stems or one cup. This particular slab has the fossils of several creatures which must have died around the same time. My oldest grandson is now 20 years old and going to lineman school. But when he was in the fourth grade he asked me to bring our collection of fossils to his class so they could see them. Given their age, it's no surprise that they were most fascinated by the coprolites - fossilized poop. The fossil display will be available for viewing until after the first of the year. I hope you enjoy it.

ing open enrollment season, seniors should consider contacting their Part D insurers if they'd benefit from spreading out their pharmacy costs.

Because of the Inflation Reduction Act, Medicare can now set prices on some covered drugs for the first time ever. Unfortunately, this policy has had some unintended effects on the development of new medicines. Thus far, it has already resulted in the discontinuation of at least 36 research programs and 22 experimental drugs.

The Inflation Reduction Act has also resulted in higher premiums for seniors. This year, standalone Part D plans were on track to cost 21% more than they did last year, on average. As a result, many seniors switched to lower cost options. The number of plans available has also dropped, down about 25% since 2020.

Because of the law, many insurers have also shifted some medications to "non-preferred" or "specialty" tiers that require higher out-of-pocket costs, restricting beneficiaries' access to previously covered drugs. Some insurers have also created rules that make it harder to get the drugs your doctor recommends, like making patients first try cheaper options.

It is important that seniors learn about these changes -and the impact they're having on their access to medicines. Kenneth E. Thorpe is chairman of the Department of Health Policy and Management at the Rollins School of Public Health, Emory University. He is chairman of the Partnership to Fight Chronic Disease.

are good at what we do, but we are not good at tooting our own horn.

Without our incredible production it is not possible to serve a feast to 10 people for less than $60, and that is something the rest of the world is in awe of. So, this Thanksgiving, stop and take a minute to be proud of being part of what feeds the United States, we are really good at what we do. That is something to be thankful for.
